Portland fire damage $60,000

By BERT WALTER
Pocono Record Reporter

PORTLAND — A fire in the Frederick Duckloe and Bros., Inc. warehouse early Friday morning caused an estimated $60,000 damage and could have destroyed the entire furniture factory complex on State St.

Portland firemen, assisted by firemen from three other departments, brought the blaze under control one-half hour after they arrived at the scene at 10 a.m.

The factory's lacquer room—which contained numerous high combustible materials—was located adjacent to the burning warehouse.

Assistant Portland Fire Chief Sherwood Wilhelm, who inspected the charred rubble shortly after noon, said the fire was apparently caused by an electric taping machine.

The taping machine was situated on a table near the lavatory in the factory warehouse. Wilhelm said the taping machine had apparently been left on.

No workers on duty

There were no workers in the plant at the time of the fire since it was closed for the holidays. It was reported, however, that some men from the shipping department had worked in the warehouse earlier in the morning.

Electrical wiring and switch boxes were located on a wall a few feet from the table on which the taping machine was placed. A fireman, who at one time worked in the warehouse, said the circuit breaker apparently shut off as soon as flames hit it.

Smoke billowed out of the warehouse at the time firemen arrived.

Fireman Whitey Kochanski said "I saw a gush of smoke come out. I got on the phone right away." He said he then went to the warehouse and closed all the fire doors.

Wilhelm said assistance was immediately sought from the Mount Bethel, North Bangor and Knowlton Township Fire Departments because "we didn't know what we were going to encounter."

Wilhelm indicated that the mutual aid call to the other fire departments accelerated the speedy control of the fire.

Filled with smoke

The entire warehouse was filled with smoke, Wilhelm said, but firemen upon arrival opened huge doors to allow smoke to escape and gain entry.

The heart of the fire was located around the table and lavatory.

Wilhelm said, however, that all the furniture stored in the warehouse is ruined due to the heavy smoke and water damage. Finishing on furniture closest to the fire was peeled and blistered by the heat. Some steel girders in the ceiling also have to be reinforced, Wilhelm said.

A pool of water was on the floor throughout the warehouse.

It was not determined whether the fire loss is completely covered by insurance.

Friday's fire is the second at the custom-made early American furniture plant. The company's mill was damaged by fire in 1961.

House seats Powell upon fine payment

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House voted Friday to seat Adam Clayton Powell provided he pays a $25,000 fine and forfeits his seniority. The controversial congressional veteran promptly accepted the conditions and took the oath of office amid applause.

The decision came after five hours of debate and parliamentary maneuvering that stalled opening-day procedures in the new House.

The final vote was 252 to 160 with six members voting present.

Earlier, the House voted down proposals to seat Powell without conditions.

Powell, a Negro Democrat from a Harlem district of New York, was excluded from the last Congress after an investigating committee reported he had misused public funds by putting his wife on his payroll without requiring her to perform regular congressional duties and by permitting official travel funds to be used for personal purposes.

Since then he has twice been re-elected to the seat.

Although Powell, in taking the oath, in effect agreed to the conditions, newsmen asked him later if he would make any effort to stop the House clerk from taking the first payment of the

McCarthy's resentment still shows

WASHINGTON (AP) —

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy turned aside pleas from liberals who supported his presidential bid and refused to back Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts for assistant Democratic leader of the Senate.

The youngest and the last of the Kennedy brothers wrested the leadership post from Louisiana's Russell B. Long at a caucus of Democratic senators Friday by a 31-26 vote.

Neither McCarthy nor Kennedy would comment after the caucus but the record indicates that some old political resentments may have been stronger than the men's common views on many political issues.

McCarthy called Kennedy Thursday afternoon and asked him to come by his office. When Kennedy got there, the Minnesota liberal told him that he was going to stick with Long for party whip, or assistant leader.

Sources in a position to know said McCarthy contended that Kennedy's election would only give a semblance of party reform and the effect therefore would be to retard actual reforms.

McCarthy, in turn, declined to give any detailed explanation. He said it would not be correct to say that Long's chairmanship of the Senate Finance Committee, on which McCarthy serves, was a guiding reason.

The ballot was secret, but three Democrats on the Finance Committee—Sen. Albert Gore of Tennessee, Fred Harris of Oklahoma, and Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut—announced their support of Kennedy in advance of the vote.

S. Vietnam enters foe's stronghold

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese troops plunged deeper Friday into the U Minh Forest in the Mekong Delta, uncovering more arms caches in that Viet Cong stronghold against apparently little resistance.

Overhead, U.S. B52 Stratofortresses unloaded 500 tons of bombs on suspected enemy positions and supply bases in the forest, where formerly no South Vietnamese soldier dared venture.

The drive is being led by one of South Vietnam's better divisions, the 21st, which has been given new U.S. equipment. It is supported by U.S. planes and helicopters.

The 21st is carrying out the allied strategy of penetrating enemy strongholds to bring the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese to battle, to seize supplies, and otherwise to upset any plans of the Communist command for a new offensive.

The 21st is being matched in its sweep operations by U.S. troops in drives north and northwest of Saigon near the Cambodian border, another area formerly avoided. The Americans also picked up arms and food caches.

Scott wins minority leadership

WASHINGTON (AP) —

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy won a place in the Senate Democratic leadership Friday that could be a stepping stone for a possible future presidential bid.

By a vote of 31 to 26, Kennedy ousted Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., from the post of majority whip—or assistant leader. His victory paralleled a successful effort by liberal-minded Republicans to retain a voice in their party's policy making.

Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., defeated 23 to 20 an effort by Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., supported by party conservatives, to gain the minority whip post vacated by the primary defeat of liberal Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif.

Both contests were decided by secret ballots in closed party caucuses. The impact of each initially was more psychological than practical, since the whip seldom has exerted strong influence on policy making in the past.

Kennedy, last of the three brothers who have played significant roles in American politics, said his victory was not a personal one but rather expressed the "sense of Democratic senators in favor of an aggressive and creative program in the upcoming Congress."

He said he did not believe defeat would diminish the effectiveness of Long, who will continue as chairman of the Senate Finance Committee.

Long attributed his upset to the 36-year-old Massachusetts senator's popularity in the country at large. He said Kennedy had the benefit "of a strong organization put together to elect his brother (John F. Kennedy) president."

The Louisiana senator said that Kennedy supporters in business, commerce and labor used their influence and "changed a lot of votes."

Kennedy was nominated by Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, who was the Democratic vice presidential nominee last year. He was seconded by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., a Westerner who turned down a Nixon Cabinet post, and Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., who broke away from other Southerners backing Long.

Kennedy had claimed publicly the support of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

Rep. John McCormack (D-Mass.) was elected to his fifth term as Speaker of the House at the opening session of the 91st Congress.

President leaves Texas last time

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—With his favorite dog, Yuki, and a few air base servicemen and employees as well-wishers, President Lyndon B. Johnson flew back to Washington Friday, ending what apparently will be his last Texas visit as President.

It was the 77th time Johnson has returned to his home state since he became President just over five years ago.

Scott, Kennedy thrill senate establishment

WASHINGTON — Sen. Hugh Scott (R-Pa.) and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy (D-Mass.) threw chilly into the Senate establishment Friday with their surprise victories in contests for the number two leadership posts in their respective parties.

"This has been a day when a great many people did not expect the outcome on either side," Scott remarked as he emerged from the GOP caucus which gave him a 23-20 victory over conservative Sen. Roman Hruska of Nebraska for the assistant leader or whip's job in the Senate.

Informed that Kennedy had defeated Louisiana's Russell Long for an identical assignment with the minority party, Scott said he felt both political parties had "revived, refreshed and restored their aspects" by the new leadership choices.

Sen. Hugh Scott

And Scott indicated he would have little difficulty working amicably on bi-partisan decisions with Kennedy. He noted that the two sit across from each other at the Judiciary committee "and we have long worked together for common causes and purposes. . . it will be a pleasure to work with him."

He saw the Kennedy election as a recognition by the Democrats that they intended to "improve" their posture with the voters.

The choice of Scott retains the whip's job in the hands of Republican "liberals." It was held previously by Sen. Thomas Kuchel of California who was defeated in a GOP primary last year. Sen. Everett Dirksen (R-Ill.) remains the Republican floor leader.

But many observers had not given the Pennsylvania a strong chance of winning since the conservative wing in the Senate GOP has traditionally been dominant.

Scott's victory margin was put together by a trio of like-minded colleagues, including Sen. Edward Brooke of Massachusetts and Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois, working with Sen. Caleb Boggs of Delaware.

Lebanon sets draft program

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Charging that Israel may spark a third world war, Lebanon announced Friday that it plans to put its manpower on a draft footing.

Defense Minister Hussein Omrani told a news conference his government has approved the principle of conscription and is moving to draft the nation's youth.

Omri appealed to all nations to rally together and try to head off an all-out war.

He vowed that if Israel follows up its commando raid on Beirut airport, Lebanon will fight back with all the means at its disposal.

"The attack on Beirut has strengthened our resistance and stiffened our determination to fight on," he said.

Omri denied reports that had appeared in Beirut newspapers that his government decided to permit a visit by the Soviet Mediterranean fleet to Lebanese waters.

He said no such request had been made by either the Russians or the U.S. 6th Fleet.

In Moscow, the first deputy commander of the Soviet navy, said: "Soviet warships are staying in the Mediterranean Sea in conformity with the interests of the Arab states, victims of Israeli aggression."

Admiral of the Fleet Vladimir Kasatonov said in the Soviet Military Review Magazine that by "setting up permanent NATO naval forces in the Mediterranean, Washington seeks to direct the efforts of its European partners to more intensive war preparations against the Soviet Union and other countries of the Socialist community, to the restoration of the post of imperialism in countries of the Arab East and Africa."

Since the Israeli attack last Saturday, Lebanon's government has been under pressure from political groups to introduce conscription.

The nation which has played a passive role in the Arab-Israeli conflict, has a standing army of only 15,000 men.

Omri said Israel has denied a request by his government to permit U.N. observers to enter frontier areas to investigate Israeli charges that Arab guerrillas were infiltrating from Lebanese soil to attack border settlements.

In Washington, Secretary of State Dean Rusk said the Johnson administration will expand its efforts "between now and Jan. 20 to improve the prospects for peace in Vietnam and the Middle East."

Rooney favors resolution

By DAVID B. OTTAWAY
Ottaway News Service
Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Rep. Fred B. Rooney, D-Pa., Friday voted in favor of a resolution seating Rep. Adam Clayton Powell of New York but stripping the Harlem Negro leader of his seniority and imposing on him a $25,000 fine.

The resolution was approved overwhelmingly by a vote of 252 to 160.

The issue of seating Powell, excluded two years ago for misuse of funds, touched off a five-hour debate at the opening day session of the 91st Congress.

Rooney said that he had voted to seat the controversial Harlem leader because he felt the people of the 18th Congressional District of New York needed representation in Congress.

Approves stripping

But he also approved of stripping Powell of his seniority so that the people of the 18th District would be represented "not by a 10-term playboy but by a first-term congressman-elect."

Two years ago Rooney voted to unseat Powell following an investigation into the Harlem leader's misuse of committee and office funds.

"Now, however," Rooney said, "Mr. Powell has twice been re-elected by his constituents; a federal Grand Jury has failed to indict him for violation of a federal law and at least one of the cases involving him in New York State has been discontinued."

"It seems, therefore, that the need for representation by the constituents of the 18th Congressional District of New York, coupled with the fact that the House has voted a severe fine, justifies my vote today to seat him," Rooney said.

Rooney also said he supported the reforms adopted by the Democratic caucus Thursday, but he refused to say whether he had backed Rep. John W. McCormack for re-election as speaker of the House.

Secret ballot

He said the vote had been a secret ballot and did not want to indicate whom he backed.

McCormack was challenged by Rep. Morris Udall of Arizona but easily defeated his opponent 178-58.

The reforms voted by House Democrats Thursday included a monthly meeting of the caucus to give young members a greater chance to air their views and discuss reforms. Rooney said he felt "very strongly" about the reforms and added that the plan for monthly meetings was "a great idea."

He said he also favored allowing the Democratic caucus, to approve all committee appointments, another reform approved Thursday.

Passengers await flight back home

(Special to the Record)

MIAMI — The latest group of air passengers bound for Miami who wound up in Havana were awaiting the arrival early Friday of Eastern Airlines planes to pick them up and take them back to the United States.

The 146 people were aboard an Eastern Airlines stretch jet, flight number 401 on a non-stop flight from Kennedy International airport in New York to Miami.

The airline said that its DC8 jetliner, largest commercial aircraft in the United States, left New York at 9:50 p.m. Thursday and was due at Miami International Airport at 12:30 a.m. Friday.

However at 11:47 p.m. Thursday Capt. Dennis Vanhuss radioed the Federal Aviation Administration at Jacksonville, Fla., and reported to officials there, "I am going to Havana."

Officials are awaiting return of the passengers and crew from Varadero Airport, Cuba, to find out what transpired aboard the jet.

Most of the hijackings from the United States to Cuba—there were 13 last year—featured a gunman who threatened a crew member.

Other crew members in addition to Vanhuss are: First Officer J.R. Cooper and Second Officer T.F. Walby. All are based in New York.

Stewardesses are Nancy Wilson, Catherine Tolan, Cathy Geronimo and Linda Abbot. All are from the Miami area.

Most kidnapped passengers in other hijackings have taken their adventure as something of a lark. After the unscheduled arrival in Castroland the planes are flown back to the United States with only the crew aboard.

The passengers are usually taken by bus to Varadero and are there flown back to America by smaller aircraft, not huge jets.

First hijacking to usher in the era of air piracy occurred April 16, 1959 when four former policemen of Batista seized a plane and forced the crew to fly to Miami, out of reach of Castro's firing squads.

Seeks reversal of 1964 conviction

Hoffa cites bugging in fraud case

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jailed Teamsters leader James R. Hoffa accused the government Friday of using illegal bugging to convict him of mail fraud—and then concealing the extent of its activities from the Supreme Court.

Hoffa's attorneys described the government's attitude as "cavalier" as they petitioned the court to hear their claim that the bugging voided his 1964 conviction.

The union president is in federal prison at Lewisburg, Pa., for a separate jury tampering conviction. The court has not acted on a petition for a new trial filed for him last September.

The bugging dispute was set off by a Justice Department disclosure to the Supreme Court in April 1967 that FBI agents had eavesdropped on S. George Burris, a New York City accountant convicted with Hoffa.

The department said then that neither Hoffa nor any of five other co-defendants was subjected to bugging. The department also said the bugging did not contribute to Hoffa's conviction.

Hoffa's attorneys contend, however, that the Burris conversation tipped government prosecutors to Hoffa's defense and that FBI Agent John C. Connors, who had been assigned to investigate union pension fund loans, tailored his testimony accordingly.

The Hoffa petition said the government withheld the contents of the bugged conversation from the court in its disclosure and also withheld what it called "the fact that nine other conversations of defendants were illegally intercepted by the government."

"Also," the petition continued, "the government chose to conceal a number of intercepted conversations of defense counsel."

The Supreme Court, acting on the bugging disclosure, directed the federal district court in Chicago in May 1967 to determine whether the convictions had been tainted by government eavesdropping. The nine additional "overhearings" were disclosed by the government to the district court. Hoffa's petition said, and later in the U.S. circuit court in Chicago government lawyers "revealed that the government possessed logs of eavesdropped conversations of certain defense attorneys."

Hoffa's petition said "piecemeal disclosures of illegal government activities" separately might appear inconsequential but, collectively, could affect substantial constitutional rights.

The district court in Chicago concluded "the government obtained no new information from the electronically eavesdropped overhearings." The circuit court, last August, ruled 2 to 1 against Hoffa.

Nixon study may rule future talks on peace

PARIS (AP) — President-elect Nixon's study of the U.S. commitment to Vietnam seems likely in the end to focus on the price of peace—and whether it must include a government in Saigon that includes left-wing elements.

The way the Republican leader resolves this central issue may condition Nixon's approach to the immediate problem of how, procedurally, the four-way Paris talks are to be formally launched if, by Jan. 20, President Johnson's envoys, have failed to provide an answer.

Nixon's appraisal of how vital are American interests in Vietnam may determine how many—and how soon—American troops may be withdrawn from the embattled land.

The studied view of several senior allied diplomats is that Nixon can approach the problem of Vietnam peacemaking far more freely and flexibly than Johnson has been able to do.

This follows from the fact that the president-elect is far less committed to the support of the Saigon government of President Nguyen Van Thieu. By many words and deeds Johnson is politically and personally pledged to uphold Thieu's authority.

Another factor highly relevant to the calculations of the peace envoys here is that Nixon has not publicly joined issue on Johnson's policy of disengagement in Vietnam—except to suggest that U.S. troops could be pulled out at a quicker rate than the Democratic administration felt able to do.

Delegates in Paris believe that Nixon, by most basic rules of political behavior, probably would want if he honorably could to settle the Vietnam affair as soon as possible in his four-year term.

For the first year of that term he could properly claim to be seeking a settlement of a problem and a policy he inherited. From 1970 on, if peace still eludes him, American policy in Vietnam could be regarded as more his own.

Mummers strut today—maybe

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — About 16,000 fancy-dressed Mummers prepared to strut and catwalk up Broad Street today in a belated salute to the New Year.

The parade originally was planned for New Year's Day, but winds up to 35 miles an hour forced the postponement.

Parade officials said the fancy costumes of satins and sequins and elaborate headpieces worn by the marchers were no match for the blustery winds.

About one million persons were expected to line the 2.5-mile parade route for Philadelphia's unique New Year's welcome.

If bad weather again prevents a parade, it will be held next Saturday, or the next, or the next, whenever the weather is right. Saturday's forecast was cloudy with a chance of snow and temperatures in the low 30s.

Wednesday's postponement was the ninth since the parade became an annual affair under city sanction in 1901. The city puts up $76,500 in prize money.

Lower voting age sought

HARRISBURG (AP) — Saying he believes "young people have earned the right to adulthood," Senate Republican Leader Stanley G. Stroup says he will seek a state constitutional amendment to lower the voting age to 19.

The Bedford County Republican referred to this as an "emancipation amendment" and said it would establish 19 as the age of majority for all other legal purposes.

Stroup, a 64-year-old former teacher and school principal, said he chose the 19-year-old level because it is the age at which Pennsylvania men become "draft-eligible under current policies."

Flu deaths show increase for fourth straight week

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Influenza is nothing to sneeze at. It can kill you.

Since major outbreaks were first reported for the week ending Dec. 7, a total of 3,594 influenza-pneumonia deaths have been reported from 122 cities which make up the National Communicable Disease Center's mortality reporting system.

This is 1,608 more deaths than normally would have occurred in the four-week period Dec. 1-28, according to the nation's epidemiologists.

The NCDC says the report from 122 cities is a barometer to determine the nation's mortality rate, but the number of actual deaths is somewhat greater.

For the fourth consecutive week, deaths from influenza and pneumonia mounted, but the NCDC says the epidemic is expected to reach its peak in another week or two.

The current epidemic involves a strain of Asian flu called Hong Kong flu because it was first isolated in Hong Kong. It differs from the Asian flu which made its appearance in the winter of 1957-58.

The epidemic this year is similar, in effect, to that of last year. But there are some major differences.

This year's outbreak occurred later in the winter and indications are that it is more extensive than last year's outbreak.

So far this year, Hong Kong flu has been reported in 23 states, with regional outbreaks in 10 states and isolated outbreaks in 14 states. That is a total of 47 states.

Last year, epidemic levels of Asian flu were reported in all but four states—Oregon, California, Idaho and Nevada.

Hong Kong flu epidemics have been complicated because of a nationwide shortage of blood donations, a shortage of vaccine for this particular strain and in New York the outbreak was compounded by a strike of fuel oil deliveries.

A team of University physicians plan to have hundreds of students wearing surgical masks to test their effectiveness in curtailing the spread of Hong Kong Flu.

In Washington, Dr. William H. Stewart, the surgeon general, said attempts to combat the epidemic are being frustrated by doctors who use limited supplies of vaccine on low priority patients and by people who need the vaccine but won't ask for it.

"A lot of people just won't go in for it," he said, emphasizing that elderly persons are the most reluctant.

Persons with chronic diseases and the elderly are particularly susceptible to the disease.

Doctors and hospitals are coping with an inadequate blood supply as the epidemics have cut down on donations. In many areas, the blood shortages are critical.

Surgery is being delayed in many instances except in emergencies.

In the 1918-19 influenza epidemic which spread throughout the world, an estimated 20 million persons died, many from such complications as pneumonia, bronchitis and mastoid and sinus infections.

State vote returns due for speedup

HARRISBURG (AP) — Pennsylvania was one of the last states to certify its presidential election results to Washington last month, but it won't happen again, says the head of the state Elections Bureau.

C. Russell Welsh Jr., elections bureau director, said newly enacted changes in the absentee voting law will remove most of the roadblocks that delayed the official Pennsylvania tally until mid-December.

In the past — including the November election — counting of absentee ballots did not begin until 10 days after voting day, said Welsh.

"And if you have 20,000 absentee ballots like in some of the big counties, it would take a couple of days to count them," said Welsh.

Then, 20 days after the election, the county boards of election were supposed to certify their official results to the state.

"But you have to be practical," said Welsh.

Many of the counties can't make the deadline under those circumstances, he said.

Moreover, there are no teeth in the election code to make counties speed their returns to the state.

Under the new system approved by the legislature in November and signed into law by the governor, absentee ballots must be submitted by the Friday before election and will be counted on election day.

"We'll be in line with the majority of states" under the new system, said Welsh.

Also under the new system, challenges of absentee ballots must be made before they are counted, helping to speed up the count once it begins.

"The new law represents a tremendous change for the better," said the elections chief.

Also by the next federal election, said Welsh, some improvements may have been made in the state's vote collection system.

"We had a bill in the legislature last year to authorize us to set up a collection center in Harrisburg but it wasn't passed," said Welsh.

An electronic data center in Harrisburg on election night would greatly speed the tally, he said.

Last year's bill also proposed an appropriation of some $15,000, said Welsh, who added that he was not certain the sum would be adequate to set up an efficient system to count the state's five million votes quickly.

About 60 per cent of the state's voting is now done on mechanical voting machines with the remainder on the old paper ballots.

I-81E opening to be in fall; Shortway nears completion

HARRISBURG — Interstate 81E from Scranton to Pocono Manor will be open to motorists this fall and all but 33 miles of the Keystone Shortway (Interstate 80) will also open this year, the State Highway Department announced.

The 10-mile span of Interstate 81E had originally been scheduled to be open to traffic last fall, but Highway Department officials said contractors had encountered difficulties with both construction weather and other circumstances.

The 18 miles of Interstate 81E will be among a record 155 miles of interstate expressways which will be opened to travelers of Pennsylvania's highways this year.

313-mile highway
Secretary of Highways Robert

Bartlett said that all but 33 miles of the 313 mile Keystone Shortway will open this year. A 38 mile span will be opened shortly.

The Highway Department opened 130 miles of new road in 1968 as compared to anticipated opening of 150 miles in 1969. Opening of the expressways means that 1,318 of the state's 1,576 miles will be in use.

Secretary Bartlett said another 73 miles of highway projects will move from the drawing boards to construction, placing all but a few miles in the Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Harrisburg areas in the construction phase.

Interstate leader
Leader of the interstates in Pennsylvania, however, is the north-south expressway - Interstate 79. Another 53 miles of this highway is expected to open south of Erie to near Meadville and north of Pittsburgh to the famed Connetquot Marsh area.

By the end of this year, traffic using Interstate 81 traveling south from the New York-Pennsylvania border will be able to travel free of traffic signals for the entire 165 miles to Harrisburg, except for an under construction section of five miles in Schuylkill County.

While 81E will be completed this fall, progress is continuing on construction of Interstate 84 through Pike County. The expressway runs from outside Scranton to the New York State line outside Matamoras.

Interchange bridges are already being constructed at Milford and Matamoras.

Still on the drawing boards is the design for a four-lane limited access highway to replace the current Route 209 from Echo Lake to Milford.

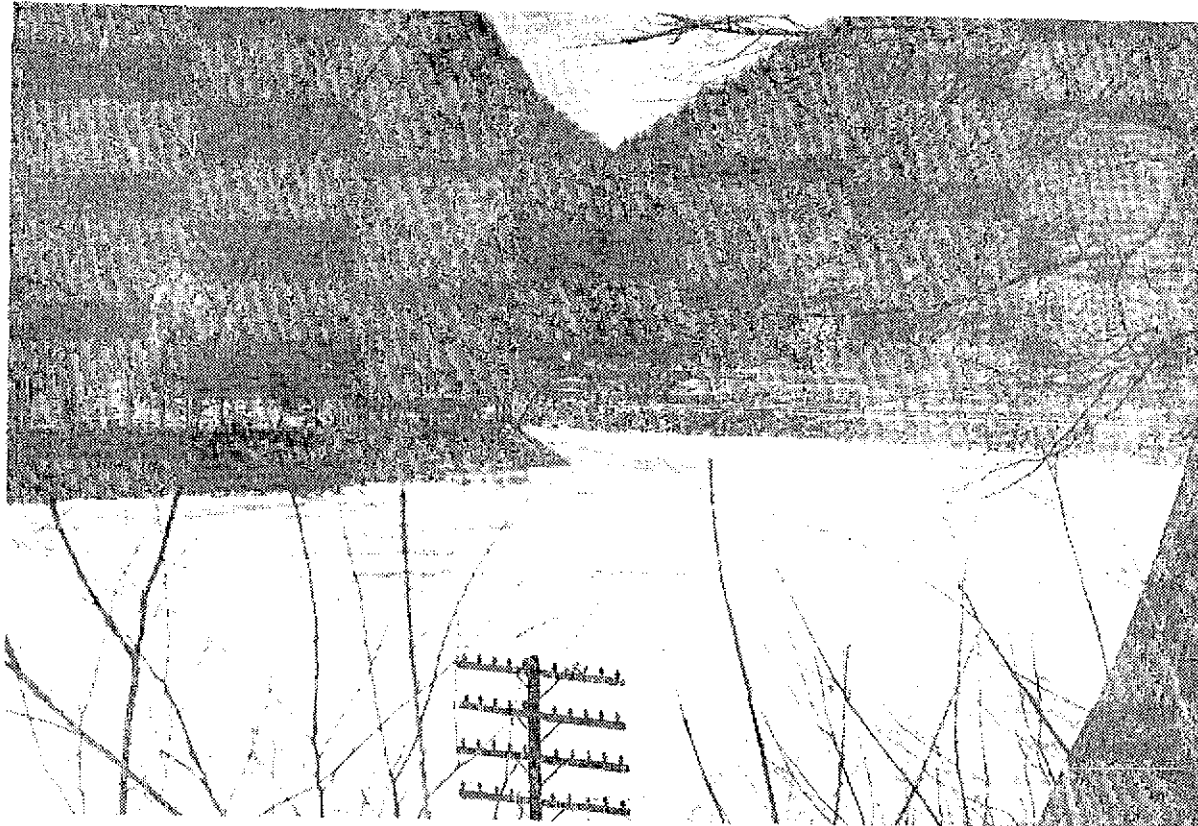

While the State Highway Department has scuttled plans to relocate the highway as a four lane route, local government agencies including the Tocks Island Regional Advisory Council, have objected to the decision.

A hearing will be conducted this month in an attempt to sway the department's decision and pave the way for a four-lane construction.

The Highway Department stated it reduced the relocated size down to two-lanes due to the construction costs.

State Highway Department map shows the nearly complete I-80.

Bangor man sues couple for $1,713

BANGOR — An Ackermanville couple is being sued by a Bangor man for alleged nonpayment of $1,713.

The suit was filed in Northampton County Court by Stanley Butler of 315 N. Main St., Bangor, against Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Schultz of Ackermanville.

The suit alleges that Butler is owed the $1,713 as the balance for renovating an old barn in Plainfield Township into apartments.

The renovation totaled $5,713 and was completed in March, 1968.

In another suit, Vreeland Cadillac-Pontiac Inc. of Easton claims $195 from John Liberto of 123 Roseto St., Roseto, for materials and services performed last March.

Lions Club gets praise from needy

PORTLAND — A total of 46 Christmas cheer baskets were delivered to needy families during the holidays by the Portland and Vicinity Lions Clubs, it was reported during a Lions meeting this week.

Fred Forman gave the report on the basket distribution during the meeting in Johnny's Restaurant, Portland.

Forman, committee chairman, also read letters of appreciation from some of the families.

In other business, Tony Pavichina was inducted as a new member. The club will meet again January 16 at 6:45 p.m. The place will be announced.

Firm purchases

STROUDSBURG — S&S Lumber Co. Inc., Scranton, has purchased a building and 2.11 acres of land in Pocono Township for $40,840 from John A. and Gertrude Smiley, Scranton, according to a deed filed Thursday in the Monroe County Register and Recorder's office.

Up Milford Way

Time to pay piper

MILFORD — The first full week in January is like a return from vacation. The fun and parties are over, it is time to go to work again, to face the everyday problems as best we can and, incidentally, pay the piper and whomever else contributed to our holiday pleasure.

Next week regular schedules will resume on most local fronts. The County Commissioners will meet on Monday. That evening the Milford Borough Council will hold their first meeting of 1969. The Delaware Valley School Board will meet on Thursday, Jan. 9.

WHAT APPEARS to have been a brutal murder at Hemlock Farms in Blooming Grove Township may well continue to provide one of the most shocking and sensational stories of the Pike County area in 1969. As these lines are written, police and law enforcement officials in two states are working on leads and checking out information. Perhaps, by the time this column appears a suspect will have been arrested.

Several persons in Milford have reported vandalism in regard to their Christmas decorations and lighting. It would appear that not only Santa Claus but Scrooge has helpers at work during the holiday season.

IN THE Pike County Court this week, after one day of testimony, the civil action of Merlin Strait versus the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania was continued until Tuesday, Feb. 4. This is another action which grew out of condemnation proceedings for Interstate Route 84. The property under dispute is located in Westfall Township at the site of the interchange, near Matamoras Borough.

Strait, a former Westfall

Township Supervisor, was represented in court by attorneys John Finan and Sanford Beecher. The Commonwealth was represented by one of the state's assistant attorney generals, Jack Lindshaw, who is becoming a familiar figure in the Pike County Courtroom. District Attorney William Gumble, who was also scheduled to be part of the defense counsel, asked to be excused from the proceedings as the Ziepkie stabbing case had erupted over the weekend.

The President Judge, Edward P. Little, a retired priest of the 34th Judicial District,

VFW Assn. officers are elected

BANGOR — New members of the Board of Directors for the Home Association of the Dyle E. Bray Post 739, Veterans of Foreign Wars, were elected during a meeting earlier this week.

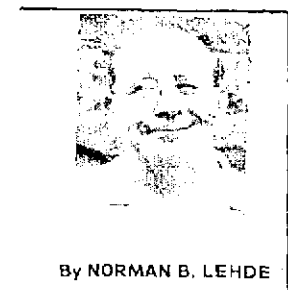

Directors elected are: Joseph Davanzo, Clayton Bisher, Albert Hausmann and Forrest Beisel.

The directors will meet January 20 and reorganize.

Albert Hausmann, president of the group, conducted the meeting. Davanzo gave the treasurer's report and Walter Warlick gave the report of the property committee.

Suspicious death is clarified granted the postponement after the counsel for both parties has agreed in order that additional testimony might be presented. The case, which is not being heard by a jury, is concerned mainly with property access and limits of condemnation. The situation is further complicated as the area is an interchange point, where the present three lane, Routes 6 and 209, will feed into Interstate 81.

WINTER sports thrived during the holiday season. Youngsters who received new ice skates and sleds for Christmas had only to open the door in order to try them out. Before the street department crew appeared with the cedar truck last Sunday, skaters were flashing up and down the streets and through the alleys of the village.

HOWARD DEAN will be the first of the Lyric Arts singers to receive an audition with City Center. The popular baritone will audition on Wednesday, Jan. 8.

On Friday Jan. 10 Dean and several other members of the company will take part in a concert at the International Center of New York City. Appearing in the concert, which will be a benefit for the Foreign Exchange Student Center, will be John Antidormi, Martin Lane, Barbara Granola, Nancy Fairchild and Nancy Lambert. The concert is being presented by Curtis and Grace Pavvini Rice of Milford.

PATRICK the Pouch received considerable attention after appearing in a holiday greeting notice even learning that he may have a sister in the Mt. Pocono area. Since Patrick is a graduate of a humane shelter, his family is pretty well scattered and seldom appear, even during the holidays, to borrow a home.

Pomona Grange meeting

MILFORD — The Monroe and Pike Counties Pomona Grange No. 64 will meet Saturday, January 11 in the Mount Prospect Grange Hall, Matamoras, with sessions at 2:30 p.m. and 7 p.m., according to James Alborano, master.

(Related story, this page)

Seminars during the day-long sessions will be conducted on Grange work and ritualism. Deputy State Master Gladys Blitz will conduct the Grange work and ritualism sessions in the afternoon.

A covered dish supper will be served at 5:30 p.m.

Members, who are urged to attend, are requested to bring a covered dish for their family and prizes for a penny social. The penny social will be conducted at a later date.

Board to meet

SWIFTWATER — The Board of School Directors of Pocono Mountain School District will meet Wednesday at 7 p.m., here in the Junior-Senior High School.

State FFA leaders to honor parents

HARRISBURG — State officers of the Future Farmers of America will honor their parents during the mid-winter

Mrs. Blitz in Grange position

MILFORD — Mrs. Gladys Blitz of Milford has been appointed Deputy State Master for the Pennsylvania Grange for Monroe and Pike Counties by A. Wayne Readinger, master.

Readinger, who appointed Mrs. Blitz to the two-year term, also named two other Milford residents to state posts.

Appointed as Deputy State Junior Master for Monroe and Pike Counties is Dr. Phyllis O. Edwards.

James A. Alborano has been named to the State Youth Committee for District Eight which comprises Monroe, Pike, Susquehanna, Lackawanna and Wyoming Counties.

Wrong-way driver causes E.S. accident

EAST STROUDSBURG — Two cars collided Thursday at the intersection of Washington and Starbird streets in East Stroudsburg when one operator was driving the wrong way on a one-way street.

According to police, Robert E. Kovac, 22, of Coaldale, was driving the wrong way on Washington St., which runs in a southerly direction when a car driven by Charles E. Swankund, 31, of 605 E. Brown St., East Stroudsburg, came out of Starbird St. onto Washington St., and the cars collided.

Carol Snyder, 20, of Nesquehoning and Pat Kuzmar, 20, of Summit Hill, passengers in the Kovac car, suffered minor cuts and bruises.

Police also investigated an accident in the Acme Parking lot in East Stroudsburg.

According to police, Dorothy L. Post, Stroudsburg R. D. 5, pulled out of a parking space, hit an ice spot which threw the car to the left and it struck a parked vehicle, owned by Maude Bensley of Dingmans Ferry R. D. 1.

It is with extreme sorrow that we announce the death of a beloved husband and dear father Earle U. Weinberg. The owner and director of Pocono Highland Camps died suddenly on December 19, 1968, in Florida. Pocono Highland Camps will continue to function with the same enthusiasm and the same quality services for which it is famous, in the summer of 1969.

He would have it no other way. We shall depend on your continued support.

State clubs to be investigated

Discriminatory practice by private fraternal clubs holding liquor licenses is expected to come under close examination by the Pennsylvania Legislature when it convenes next week.

In fact, a long, hard look at clubs that refuse to admit Negroes may be one of the first bits of business on the agenda when the Legislature opens business for 1969 on Tuesday.

There are several fraternal clubs that aren't open to Negroes and haven't been at anytime in their history.

However, most fraternal clubs operate under a national and even international charter and aren't operating as a state organization as its headquarters.

Doubt then exists whether action by the Pennsylvania Legislature can actually force a fraternal club to alter its rules of operating on a state basis and not on a national basis.

It is our feeling that action of this type should begin on a federal level and the sooner the better. Fraternal is only fraternal when all races and religions are included.

The entire investigation was launched recently when Rep. Herbert D. Fineman, Philadelphia, and Rep. K. LeRoy Irvy, a Negro from Pittsburgh, were refused service at a club in Harrisburg.

The entire incident could spark an ugly situation on the state level — one that may not even have the power to solve embarrassing situations of this type.

However, the investigation is certain to spark hard feelings and a lot of trouble before the incident is marked closed.

Peace hopes grow

Are the Paris peace talks showing results?

On the surface the answer certainly would be no. However, an examination of recent events leads one to believe that something may actually be transpiring in the peace discussions.

Delegates to the talks haven't even been able to decide on the design of a table on which to hold the lengthy discussions. However, it appears as if the talks may have actually had a bearing on the fighting in the field.

Although the Christmas-New Year truce was broken on several occasions by the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese, the infractions were less numerous and smaller in size than in past years.

American casualties during the past week were 113 in the Vietnam fighting, or the lowest in 10 weeks. The lowest mark in recent months was 109 during the week of Oct. 20 to Oct. 26.

Delegates to the Paris peace talks have been taking a holiday recess, just as they have on the fighting front in Vietnam. However, the very fact that all sides are at least talking about peace appears to have brought about a much quieter fighting front.

News dispatches from the front indicate that the fighting men are anxiously looking toward Paris and the possibility of positive results from the discussions.

They appear to have adopted a less spirited view toward actual combat conducted deep in the jungle.

Hope continues to spread toward a peaceful settlement of the fighting and it grows stronger almost daily.

If unsuccessful peace talks build a feeling of peace, we have every right to believe that successful peace talks will bring a satisfactory end to the jungle fighting that a short time ago appeared endless.

Canada having trouble

By ROBERT SVENSSON
Canada is having coin troubles.

The problems of a shortage, which beset the United States in 1964, 1965, and 1966, are now plaguing our northern neighbor. Silver, too, is out the window in Canada which means that she now joins the "have nots" in the matter of coins of intrinsic value.

It is now expected that the United States will come to Canada's rescue to solve the coin shortage. Arrangements are underway for the U.S. Mint to produce Canadian coins.

Rich heritage
Canada has a great coin background and the coins of this country have attracted thousands of collectors in the past few years. Interest is world-wide.

The Canadian coin story is as exciting as our own. Most collectors begin with the year 1851 when the use of "decimal" coinage comparable to the U.S. system commenced.

Yet, specimens from the north go much farther back into antiquity than that. It must be remembered that the French once controlled the north country. Under the French regime, there are coins dated as early as 1670 that circulated in Canada.

Tokens circulated

In addition to official coins, there have been a tremendous number of tokens used by our neighbors. In many cases, these tokens command fantastic premium prices and are eagerly sought by collectors.

Tokens issued in Canada range from the poorest appearing base metal pieces to the most beautiful specimens in bronze, copper, and aluminum.

Political pressure visible

Government drops sights on 'Model Cities'

By DONALD R. LARRABEE
Record Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Political pressures in the last congress and the political realities of the new congress and the new administration may make a shambles of the vaunted "Model Cities" program.

It is going to be difficult, if not impossible, to achieve everything envisioned by the Great Society planners. Originally, there were to be roughly 60-70 "Model Cities" — specially-picked communities most in need of a concentrated approach to attack festering social, economic and physical problems.

But the politicians in all 50 states were too much for the bureaucrats and the planners. Every state needed at least one "model city" and the larger states demanded from two to five. Today, the federal government has provided planning grants for more than 140 cities and the concept has necessarily changed drastically from the original plan.

The government is now forced to talk about "model neighborhoods." It is lowering its sights.

It is trying to tell the mayors and city managers that the program has gotten out of hand and that the cities with planning grants had best tailor them to the practicalities of available federal funds and changing concepts.

Seattle first

This was evident at a press conference the other day when officials of the Housing and Urban Development Department announced that Seattle, Wash. would be the first community in the nation to receive a supplemental grant to carry out its five-year program.

HUD authorities indicated that some 18 other cities could look for grants within the next few weeks to begin working on their target areas. But these officials took pains to emphasize that congress has not provided all of the money authorized for "model cities" and that the actual amount that may become available to many communities will depend heavily on the amount of appropriated funds available.

This is where the next administration and the new 91st congress come in. No one knows, as of this moment, whether the current program will be extended, much less expanded. The cupboard is bare of planning grants and it is questionable whether the money appropriated by congress will do the job to carry out the plans now being made by scores of communities.

Congress authorized $1.9 billion in supplemental grants and $600 million for urban renewal projects in model neighborhoods. If "appropriated" only $512.5 million in grants and $112.5 million for urban renewal.

Officials now say that the actual amount of the grant for the first program year will be based on the population of the model neighborhoods, the relative degree of social, physical and economic problems and, most importantly, the amount of money available.

Strings attached

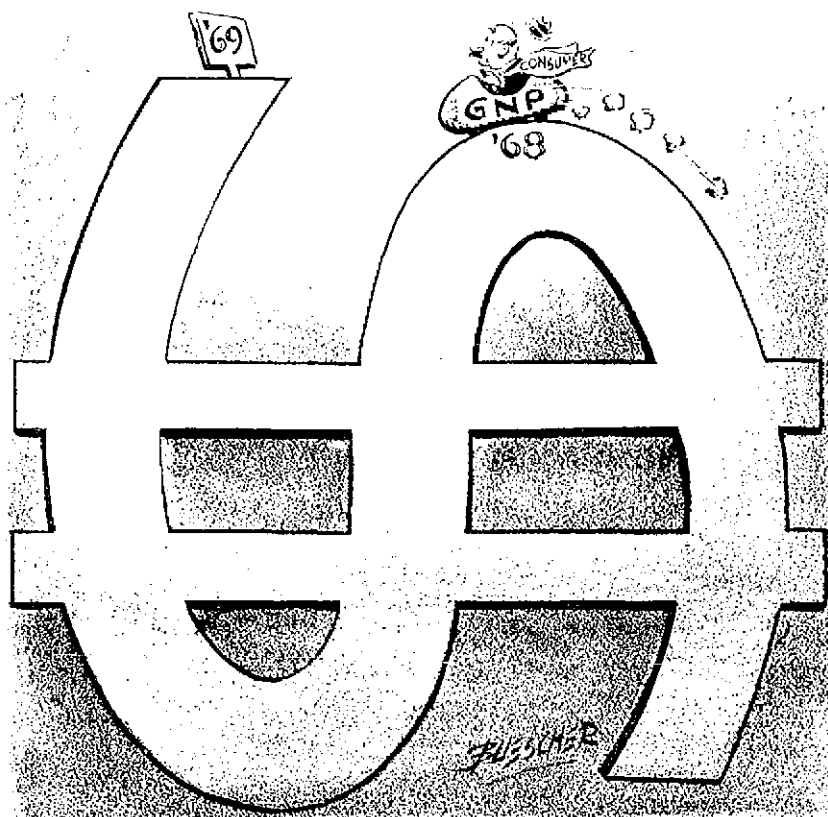

Some definite strings have been attached to the grants: They can be used to finance special experimental projects for model neighborhood residents, to fill gaps not met by other federal, state or local resources and for activities that will attract other resources into the model neighborhood. Supplemental funds cannot be used, officials emphasize, to replace local funds that would normally have gone to benefit model neighborhood residents.

And there is no guarantee that a city with a model cities program will obtain a grant for any federal program it wants, to use in the model neighborhood.

The fact that a city has received a planning grant does not automatically qualify it for supplemental funds. Officials say that cities must carry out a planning effort "which meets the general standards of the Model Cities program" before they are eligible for further funds. This is all the language the bureaucracy needs to eliminate any community when the kitty runs low.

Although the Johnson Administration presented the "Model Cities" concept as something of an overnight cure for the manifold problems of the city, officials are now soft-pedaling that notion. They look for improvements in education, housing, employment and other conditions in the target area during the five-year period — but no one is claiming that all the goals will be accomplished or that the federal program will bring about urban utopia.

The thriller

The Pennsylvania Story

Big week to begin

HARRISBURG — When Pennsylvania's legislative braves gather next Tuesday for the convening of the regular 1969 session they do so on the rather curious and innocuous note that since 1776 they have assembled more often on New Year's Day than on next week's January 7!

For the statistically-minded: there have been fourteen January 1 convening day blowouts (the last having occurred in 1963) as opposed to 11 (excluding next week's) of the January 7 variety.

It's not a critical item, to be sure, but it is perhaps a titillating note when you think of convening on New Year's Day! (At least by a January 7 there's a sporting chance of bloodstream and eyeballs returning to a semblance of normalcy.)

The question might well arise as to just "who" determines the convening day of the Legislature? It isn't a question of "who" in this case; rather it's an inanimate document known as the State Constitution which decrees in no uncertain terms that the convening day shall be "the first Tuesday in January" — period.

Poorhouse power

Shying away from the heavy side of the upcoming legislative gathering for the moment (there's too much already and there will be more later; few perhaps realize it but it is the legislative branch convening next week that has the power (not the governor) to send every last Pennsylvanian to the poorhouse.)

It could, but of course it won't — not quite; not this year at least, even though a heavy increase in taxes is expected. But it does illustrate the tremendous authority vested in the gents who will be gathering on Capitol Hill next week — and every reason why Pennsylvanians, if for no other reason than to protect their own hides, would do well these days to watch their legislative branch in action rather closely!

It wasn't this way not too many years ago. In the founding days of the Commonwealth there was rather intense interest. Things were new then, people were few; interest and knowledgeability were rather widespread by dint of circumstance more than effort.

Once the pattern was established however, interest lagged. Few outside the direct orbit knew or cared what happened legislatively. The average man on the street seemingly knew little and cared less.

This columnist ran into the pattern nearly 30 years ago when he first started covering Capitol Hill as a working newspaperman. The transition has been startling — and good. Pennsylvanians today are much more aware, much more concerned.

The "billion dollar budget" is perhaps a perfect illustration of the eye-opening, citizen-concern interest predominant today and largely missing in yesteryear.

plus single fiscal year) proved an eye-opener to the heretofore somewhat indifferent man on the street (who of course fools the bill.)

In a nutshell then, with the Legislature each year in one way or another striking closer and closer to home on the Keystone State citizen front, what happens on Pennsylvania's Capitol Hill today should indeed concern every Pennsylvanian — more so in most instances (a complete reversal from yesteryear) than what happens in Washington!

Whether the convening day for the legislative session be January 1 or January 7 makes no difference on this score.

Next Tuesday's legislative convening marks the opening of another chapter in the serial residents of the Keystone State would do well to follow closely — if for no other reason than to look to their own personal interests!

Letters to the Editor

Appeal for assistance

My dearest brother:

Warmest Christian greetings to you in His Name! I hope you have seen my post card by now. Do praise God with me for the life I live unto His glory.

For the war passed over me with much tragedy and plenty of times in the Biafran Army Custody for preaching the gospel. Then bombs and explosives did destroy the planted crops (sic) that I had food from a trader worth 88 pounds, about $200 in your dollar area.

All my house and properties were looted and burnt, the orphans I cared for were left stranded, but God delivered me. Praise His Name!

The trader has begun to ask me for the $200 feeding commitment and has reported to the Army officers who advised me to pay him the money before or on the 28th of January, 1969. This was done after much warnings.

I have nothing and nobody to meet such amount but as I live I hope you are quite pleased, hence show your pleasure by sending check valued at $200 to be paid out and to be free. Many like I am hungry, homeless, thirsty, helpless, naked and totally victimized, hence you: prayers and aids would help. This is a second day I have not tasted food but to keep this amount to post to you this letter with the hope that you will help. Parcels of food, milk, meat, fish, salt, sugar, beverages, medicines, bandages and other helpful items will be accepted.

Then larger parcels of clothings, sweaters, blankets, shoes, bedsheets, raincoats, domestic utensils, flower seeds and (toin) clothes will be accepted for all ages and sexes as unto the Lord.

But as I have no good Bible, please see that some helpful Bibles, Bible Dictionary, Commentaries, magazines, books, encyclopedia, chained reference Bibles, etc. are sent to me for study.

I have no strength to write to you more fully now until I hear from you as I expect every good news from you. Can you have friends to help me? Do you forget of your promise of a surprising gift to me by airmail? Always remember me in your prayers. Till I hear from you then

Wrong debate

WASHINGTON — Nothing could be more pointless, more useless, more hurtful than to keep on debating Vietnam in terms which have nothing to do with today's events — and tomorrow's decisions.

The issues of Hawk vs. Dove, of escalation vs. de-escalation, of win-the-war vs. lose-the-war have been settled but the argument lingers on.

President Johnson's objective is disengagement. President-elect Nixon's is disengagement.

However slowly the Paris talks may progress, the intention of both is to steadily turn over more of whatever fighting continues to the increasingly well-armed and combat-ready forces of South Vietnam.

The United States now needs to turn aside from the controversies which no longer have substance and focus its attention on the real issues which lie ahead.

For the anti-Johnson, anti-Vietnam critics to keep nagging over the war is one way to lose the peace.

Those who want a peace-at-any-price from Paris are eager to stir controversy for its own sake and reach for any stick to beat the Johnson Administration, like inflating out of all recognition the differences between Secretary of Defense Clark Clifford and Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

There are some differences but they are minor, they concern tactics and to a large extent have already been resolved by events.

Public blame

Eager to get serious talks under way, Clifford publicly blames Saigon for using the unresolved seating arrangements for delay. The effect of this stance was a flurry of irritation from Vice President Ky in Paris. And a very pained secretary of state in Washington.

Rusk's position was that Hanoi and Saigon were equally to blame for delaying the talks over the seating issue and that to criticize Saigon publicly and one-sidedly was unnecessarily and unwittingly helping the Communists.

Wild West returns

WASHINGTON — Far be it from me to start the New Year with one of my snide columns of commentary on national affairs. All I'm going to do is list some similar events in the capital city of your nation and let you draw your own conclusions.

Oh, I suppose I could say something about Washington today resembling Dodge City, Kan., or Tombstone, Ariz., during their hairiest periods, but I'm much too nice a guy to do that on Jan. 1. (But if Marshall Dillon is reading this, please call your office. You're needed in Washington.)

In a one-week period merchants and crooks

here had the following shoot-outs. (This is by no means all the holdups, or even all the merchants and other people who were injured, wounded, beaten, killed and/or robbed. These are merely the merchants who shot back!)

At a service station, located about 10 blocks from the Capitol, a holdup man approached the night manager with a gun. The night manager drew his own revolver and killed the hoodlum. On the other side of the Capitol several armed bandits drew on a grocer. He pulled a gun himself and fired five times as they fled. He doesn't know whether he hit anyone.

Shot while leaving

In a place called Doris' Carry-out a stickup man forced the clerk to give him the day's receipts. As the thug was leaving the clerk pulled a gun from under the counter and shot him in the back and both arms.

The owner of a market, who has been robbed many times, shot it out with a robber. The owner was shot in the hand, a clerk got it in the neck and the bandit was shot twice.

At a jewelry store the owner had a wild gun battle with bandits, wounding one and getting shot himself in the neck.

In a liquor store, four armed gunmen came in and held pistols on the proprietor and his shotgun-carrying guard. (You think it's not like the Old West? Once they rode shotgun on stagecoaches; now it's in liquor stores.) The liquor store owner began firing his own pistol, hitting one holdup man in the hip. The others fled, pursued by the guard, and were captured by a passing posse, I mean, the police.

To cap this one seven-day period in merry Washington, three gun-wielding men came into a carry-out and attempted a holdup. Are you ready? Two of the bandits fled after one of them was shot dead — by the waitress!

While the peace negotiators argue about the shape of the peace table, the shape of foxholes in Vietnam remain the same — narrow and deep.

Perhaps we should try a new slogan: Join the Navy and see North Korea.

As one Pueblo sailor put it, "That was a lousy way to snive up back pay."

Just Between Us—

By Bobby Westbrook

Everybody has his own idea of a good way to round off an old year. For me, there could have been nothing more pleasurable than a bridge safari with good friends, good bridge, good food and the snow falling softly outside the big windows overlooking the woods and White Heron Lake.

And, just as yawns were beginning to spread, in came the neighbors making the New Year's rounds in old raccoon coats and ear-flapped caps surrounded by an aura of fresh cold air and high spirits that woke everybody up again.

I'm not too sure that I chose the best way to start a new year, with all the activities centered around nine hours of televised football games. However, I wouldn't have missed the Penn State-Kansas game for anything, whooping and hollering and alternating between despair and hope.

We tried to spot local people we knew were in the crowd, but couldn't. The day wasn't really up to new year's resolutions of useful accomplishment, but at least served to take one's mind off the thermometer and the heating system chugging away like crazy trying to keep ahead of the wind.

However, it really doesn't seem like a New Year has started — not with mid-week holidays and every working day seeming like Friday. Life won't get down to being real and earnest until Monday when the calendar will bloom like the rose.

"When the days begin to lengthen, then the cold begins to strengthen" is certainly holding true this year, but they are getting longer and in the lingering light there is hope.

Mrs. Gregory C. Bush (Arnold's Studio)

Miss Judy Mae Fish, Gregory Bush married

EAST STROUDSBURG — Miss Judy Mae Fish, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reed P. Fish of East Stroudsburg R.D. 2 was married to Gregory C. Bush, son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin C. Bush of 1411 Glenbrook Road Stroudsburg in the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church.

Rev. Harold C. Eaton officiated at the ceremony before an altar decorated with vases of white carnations. There were white aisle ribbons and James Werkheiser was soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white organza over taffeta in an A-line. Sleeves, hemlines and the border of her cathedral-length veil were of lattice work Alencon lace edged with re-embroidered daisies. A forward spray of white daisies of the lace held her bouffant illusion veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations and ivy.

Miss Rita Fish, sister of the bride, was her maid of honor. She wore a gown of similar style in crystal aqua over white taffeta. She wore a matching dior bow headpiece with crystal aqua veiling and carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

The bridesmaids, Mrs. Carol Fisher, East Stroudsburg; Mrs. Nancy Fish, Delaware Water Gap; and Miss Marsha Bush.

Stroudsburg, sister of the bridegroom, wore similar ensembles and carried bouquets of yellow carnations. Linda Carol Fish, cousin of the bride, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Fish, Delaware Water Gap, was flower girl; and Keith Davies, cousin of the bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Davies Jr. of East Stroudsburg R.D. 2 was ringbearer.

William Rinehart of Glen Brook Road RD 4 was best man. Ushers were Steven Fisher, John Possinger, Steven Sommers and Robert Quigley.

A reception for 200 guests was held at the Eagles Hall, Stroudsburg. Music for square dancing was furnished by Doc Rumsey and his band.

For their wedding trip to Harrisburg and Gettysburg, the bride wore a green one-piece knit dress with brown accessories. They now reside at 556 North Fifth St., Stroudsburg.

The bride, a graduate of East Stroudsburg High School in the class of 1968, is employed in the office of Dr. J. Bruce Dunlap. Her husband, a graduate of Stroudsburg High School in the class of 1966, is a member of the local National Guard unit and is employed at Bush Service Co., Stroudsburg.

Clearing House hours steer clear of winter

STROUDSBURG — Monroe County organizations fight shy of special events requiring public attendance during January and February, months notorious for bad driving weather, according to the Clearing House Calendar released by Mrs. Robert R. Hellman, chairman, for the public service project of the Woman's Club of the Stroudsburgs.

Braving the jinx, however, the Monroe County Historical Society has set Jan. 4 for its annual business meeting and Jan. 11 for its annual dinner meeting.

The dates are traditional with the organization, set because they are near the birthday of Jacob Stroud, founder of the Stroudsburgs.

Mrs. Hellman said that she had also discussed several other dates with organizations but none of them were firm enough to be listed. She requests that organizations which have set definite dates for future events call her.

The events now listed on the calendar include:

January
Saturday, 4: Monroe County Historical Society annual business meeting, 2:30 p.m., Stroud Community House.

Saturday, 11: Monroe County Historical Society annual dinner meeting, 6:30 p.m., East Stroudsburg State College dining hall.

February
Nothing listed

April
Sunday, 6: Easter

May
Sunday, 11: Mother's Day

June
Wednesday, 11: Concert by Philadelphia Orchestra under direction of Eugene Ormandy, benefit Pocono Art Center, East Stroudsburg High School.

Friday, 13: Area schools close for summer vacation

Saturday, 14: Junior Woman's Club Spring Banquet

August
Saturday, 23: Country and Western Music Festival.

Marianos to mark golden wedding

BANGOR — Mr. and Mrs. Salvatore Anthony Mariano of 502 North Seventh St., Bangor, will be honored on their 50th wedding anniversary on Sunday.

Married in the old Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church, Bangor, they will attend a mass of thanksgiving in the present church on Sunday morning before a family dinner at home.

They both came from Italy. Mr. Mariano was a silk worker and later worked in the slate industry with Albion Vein Slate for 38 years before his retirement. He is a member of the church Holy Name Society.

They have three children: Frank of Roseto; Angelina, wife of Anthony Dotoli, Pon Argyl; and Theresa, wife of John Barczynski, Bangor. They have eight grandchildren.

Batchler-Wenton betrothal

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph John Ceci Jr.

Miss Nancy Eilenberger bride in Philadelphia

EAST STROUDSBURG — Miss Nancy Eilenberger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray M. Eilenberger of East Stroudsburg, became the bride of Joseph John Ceci, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ceci, Sr. of Philadelphia.

The nuptial mass was performed by Rev. Joseph Lanni at St. Monica's Roman Catholic Church in Philadelphia. A reception at Paradise Gardens followed the noon ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length empire gown of silk peau de sole with a detachable train and elbow length sleeves trimmed in seed pearls and crystals. She wore a full length mantilla trimmed with Alencon lace appliques.

Miss Linda Castanzo of Philadelphia was maid of honor. Bridesmaids included Miss Debbie Eilenberger of East Stroudsburg, sister of the bride, Miss Linda Curatola, cousin of the bridegroom, and Miss Kathryn Cassin, both of Philadelphia.

The attendants wore identical gowns of butterfly yellow crepe accented with pastel Venice lace at the bodice and green velvet bows in back. Their bouquets were baskets of multi colored carnations and mums.

Raymond Castanzo of Philadelphia was best man. Ushers were Michael Kevitch, Michael Ceci, cousin of the bridegroom, and Joseph Castanzo, all of Philadelphia.

Mrs. Ceci is employed as a staff nurse at the Albert Einstein Medical Center. Mr. Ceci is employed at Elkkan-Vogel Music Publishers, Inc.

After a honeymoon trip to Bermuda, the couple are making their home at 3555 Red Lion Road, Philadelphia.

Class party is held at Zion church

STROUDSBURG — The Faithful Workers Class of the Zion United Church of Christ, Stroudsburg, met in the social rooms of their church for a Christmas party opened by Mrs. Emma Cook, president.

Christmas scriptures from St. Luke were read by Elizabeth Smith followed by a Christmas prayer by Mrs. Mary Vough.

A vote of thanks was given to Mrs. Clara Leckebusch for her many hours of work in making knitted slippers and for making the project a success.

Mrs. Leckebusch was appointed in charge of service to the ill of the class and for tributes to any member who may die.

Other officers were re-elected for the coming year. The class voted a gift of money to the church and also a poinsettia for Christmas decorations. All sick and convalescing members were remembered as well as the class teacher and the servicemen of the church.

Refreshments were served from a table decorated with a Christmas tree made by Mrs. Mabel Setzer's daughter, Mrs. Marion Monahan, and with Christmas flowers by Mary Vough.

Members present each received a Christmas gift: Mary Vough, Clara Leckebusch, Mabel Setzer, Ruth Fabel, Elizabeth Smith, Minnie Winters and Emma Cook.

Tunkhannock to raise tax rate by single mill

POCONO LAKE — Tunkhannock Township Supervisors Monday night passed a resolution which will raise the property tax millage from four to five mills for residents of that municipality in 1969.

The one mill increase is intended to raise a bond for the purchase of equipment for the township fire company.

Supervisor President Werner Wandschneider said the extra mill was essential for the fire company because of the new demands which the fire fighting unit will have to meet.

"Fire equipment will be needed badly at the Pocono International Raceway when the track, opens its first full racing season," Wandschneider said. But over the demands of the raceway for fire equipment, Wandschneider maintained, come the demands of the township and its residents who need better protection.

Advisory board
The supervisors also appointed an advisory board which will take the place of a planning and zoning commission in the township.

Wandschneider said the people appointed to the board represent all the divergent factions which are present in the township and will give a better insight to the problems, if they are allowed to speak out and make recommendations to the supervisors.

Appointed to the board were David Montgomery, representing the raceway;

Auto death case bound into court

STROUDSBURG — Mrs. Helen Fetherman, 65, of 2011 N. Fifth St., Stroudsburg, Friday was given a hearing before Stroudsburg Justice of the Peace Floyd W. Kellogg on an involuntary manslaughter charge.

Kellogg found enough evidence to bind the case over for court action.

Mrs. Fetherman is free on $500 bail.

Mrs. Fetherman was the driver of a car that collided headon with one driven by Mrs. Shirley Transue, 45, of Delaware Water Gap, on N. Fifth Street.

Mrs. Elsie Transue, a passenger in the Transue car, was dead on arrival at the General Hospital of Monroe County. She died of injuries received in the crash, which occurred on Oct. 2, 1968.

Monroe County rates 28th for convictions in court

Record Harrisburg Bureau
HARRISBURG — Monroe County had the distinction during 1967 of ranking 46th of all 67 counties in the number of defendants processed by the county criminal court, a State Department of Justice report showed Thursday.

But while the county ranked 46th in the number of defendants listed before the court (Quarter Sessions, Oyer and Terminer), it is interesting to note that insofar as conviction of defendants is concerned, the county ranked 28th.

More specifically, the department report showed that of the 146 defendants, 13 were convicted and sentenced with 90 entering guilty pleas. Thirteen defendants were found guilty by the court, and six other defendants were found guilty by jury trial.

Of 37 defendants in Monroe County last year who were not convicted, 26 cases resulted in dismissal, seven were acquitted by the court (jury trial waived), and four were acquitted by a jury.

And, of 109 defendants in Monroe County drawing conviction and sentence last year, not one was given the death penalty.

Six defendants were sentenced to a state prison or reformatory, two received suspended sentences or were placed on probation, 23 were sent of the county prison, and 78 were directed to pay fines or costs only.

Monroe County court also handled 126 nonsupport cases last year with all 126 defendants

Ray Owens rites held

STROUDSBURG — Funeral services for Ray A. Owens, 75, of 605 Main St., Stroudsburg, were held Friday in the Daniel G. Warner Funeral Home with Rev. Marshall J. Riu officiating.

Burial was in Stroudsburg Cemetery.

Two killed in Rt. 512 accident

BATH — Two supervisors employed at Valerie Fashions in Wind Gap, were killed Friday at 3:20 p.m. when the car they were in was hit head-on by an 81-year-old man from Bethlehem Township as both cars traveled on Rt. 512, one mile south of Bath.

Dead are Francis Dreas, 54, and his wife, Florence, 54, both of Emmaus.

Northampton County Coroner Joseph Reichel said Mrs. Dreas died of head injuries and multiple fractures, Francis died of a crushed chest.

Also injured was Howard Hummel, driver of a van-type truck which collided with the Dreas car.

Hummel was taken to St. Luke's Hospital, Fountain Hill, where he is undergoing treatment for a broken left knee.

According to Moore Township Police Chief Harvey Miller, Hummel was traveling north on Rt. 512 when he attempted to pass a car traveling in the same direction. Hummel struck the southbound Dreas car head-on.

Police said Mr. and Mrs. Dreas were enroute home from work at the time of the accident.

E.S. woman's father dies at age 68

EAST STROUDSBURG — Albert H. Mattes, 68, of 318 W. Nesquehoning St., Easton, died Wednesday in the General Hospital of Monroe County.

Born in Easton, he was a son of the late John and Emma Becker Mattes.

Mr. Mattes was director of tax billing in Northampton County Courthouse from 1939 until 1964, when he retired. Before working in the courthouse, he had been employed in various silk mills in the Easton area.

He was a member of St. Joseph Roman Catholic Church, Easton, the Liberty Hose Co., Fleas Club, and a fourth degree Knight of Columbus.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Florence Sampson Mattes, at home; three daughters, Mrs. Ann Dawson, in Germany; Mrs. Elizabeth Moffett, Eugene, Ore., and Mrs. Helene Molina, East Stroudsburg; 12 grandchildren; three sisters, Mrs. Helen Mueller, Columbia, N.J.; Mrs. John McDevitt, Phillipsburg, N.J., and Mrs. John Cahoon, Philadelphia.

Services will be held Monday at 9:15 a.m. in the Bechtel Funeral Home, Easton, with Requiem Mass following in St. Joseph Roman Catholic Church.

Burial will be in the church cemetery.

Friends and relatives may call at the funeral home Sunday after 7 p.m.

Notre Dame to form club

EAST STROUDSBURG — The Green and Gold Club will be formed at Notre Dame High School during a meeting that is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. Sunday.

The club will include social, academic and athletic aspects of school life.

TIRAC sets $906,200 study to cover three-year period

STROUDSBURG — An ambitious $906,200 three-year ecological study designed to prevent planning blunders in the 4,100 square mile Tocks Island Region was unveiled Friday by the Tocks Island Regional Advisory Council (TIRAC).

The seven-county Council of Governments will seek a total $514,100 in grants from numerous agencies to conduct the study which is to provide a fundamental basis of planning and other future decision making in the Tocks Region.

Ecology, basically, is the study of the relationship of interactions between living things and the environment. Specifically, it is the study of man and how he can change a region.

The three-year study for which funds are now being sought will reach beyond the planning norms of regulating man or communities to preserve in order to protect.

In the past, planning — specifically community and regional master plans — have used facts relating only to design, economics, engineering and transportation. Ecology — the raw region and man itself — has always been ignored.

Natural resources The scope of the ecological study involves an inventory, interpretation, evaluation and synthesis of all natural resources in the area. It then into an understandable package and then use it as a lexicon, encyclopedia or guidebook for future development.

TIRAC planner Charles

Boster said the information, once compiled through the study, will permit private citizens, local, state and federal agencies to intelligently make a decision for projects in the area without rapping the environment or making an ecological and planning blunder.

As an example, Boster cited that once the study is complete, the State Highway Department could use the facts in making a decision for future highway locations.

The ecological study, since it will inventory all of the region's geology, soils, water, vegetation, wildlife, climate, slope and orientation, would have aided the Highway Department in the relocation of the proposed new Route 205.

Before designers went to the drawing board, the study would have showed them plainly the streams, slopes, the various gorges and marsh area where centuries-old vegetation could be found.

Better guide

The vision seen by the TIRAC officials is that once the information derived from this study is made available, it will better guide citizens and planners in making a decision which will not destroy natural beauty and phenomena in the Poconos, the Kittatinny's in New Jersey and the areas of Orange and Sullivan counties in New York state.

The prospectus for the ecological inventory lists a total of 18 federal and state agencies which will be directly involved in the study.

While the overall cost reaches nearly one million dollars, the actual dollar-for-dollar cost will be $514,100. The remaining funds have been tabulated on work which will be performed by TIRAC, the 18 agencies and other groups.

Professor Richard Toth of Harvard University, a landscape architect, prepared a pilot ecological inventory study last summer of Sandyston and Montague townships in Sussex County, N.J.

"The pilot application showed that the ecological inventory-analysis approach could not only prevent ecological blundering, but also vitally assist all participating agencies in their planning and programming," the TIRAC prospectus cited.

The project, which will be coordinated by TIRAC Planning Coordinator Thomas Kleck, requires the hiring of a natural resources planner, two natural resources specialists and a secretary.

These officials will execute the program and work with a steering committee comprised of representatives from government agencies of the three states; TIRAC's Comprehensive Planning Committee and a special Board of Consultants consisting of a landscape architect, ecologist and representatives from regional planning.

Frank Dressler, executive director of TIRAC, indicated that commitments have already been received for a large portion of the $514,100 in cash needed by TIRAC.

Doors of Scotrun store close on century of history

Scotrun Store — hub of activity for century

SCOTRUN — The old country stores, tucked away from the heavy mainstream of traffic, which provided leisure conversation, shelter from the weather, a meeting place and near endless credit, are almost a thing of the past.

The doors of one country store in Scotrun, which shut and reopened its doors for nearly 100 years, closed its doors the day before Christmas and looked in a century of nostalgia.

The store was Kinsley's Market which has been moved to a new location in Tannersville along the heavy mainstream of traffic on Route 611.

The country store was actually a part of a large one-and-one-half story wood frame building in which the Scotrun Postoffice is located.

No records

Although there are no longer any actual records of the building and the various owners of the country store, it is estimated that the building is well over one century old.

Mrs. George Wertheimer, 87, of Scotrun, said that Steve Heckman and his wife first operated a country store in the building during the late 1800s. At that time there was no post-office in Scotrun and Heckman used to walk to Swiftwater for the mail.

Heckman, whose son Walter, was Monroe County Prothonotary, and is now associate judge, sold the store to Allen Burdell. Burdell soon after, however, sold the store

$351 given toward gifts

STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County Chapter, Association for Retarded Children received $351 for Christmas gifts for underprivileged and retarded children in answer to letters sent out by the chapter.

James B. Groner, president of the chapter said gifts of clothing were purchased with the gift fund.

Committee members for the gift fund were Mrs. Roger Chaucer, Mrs. Christine Groner and Rev. Marshall Rine.

to William E. Niering of Scotrun in 1905.

Niering expanded the grocery store to include a butcher shop and also became Scotrun's postmaster in 1907. Since then the postmastership has remained in the Niering family. William Niering's son, George, is now postmaster.

Some residents could recall the day when William Niering used to travel throughout the area with meat packed in ice since there was no refrigeration.

While George Niering was a boy, he helped his father in the store and butchery shop and upon his father's death, operated the business.

Almost half century George Niering operated the store for 45 years. In 1951, it was acquired by Clayton Kinsley, father of Robert Kinsley of Leeders.

Kinsley, who was a chef in Pocono Manor for about 15 years, retained the butcher shop in the country store and added another real country flavor — smoked hams.

Clayton Kinsley, who died last September, has expanded the smoked meat operations to the extent where he shipped them all over the United States.

Robert Kinsley maintained the operation since the death of his father and is now continuing the business in a somewhat "modern" rural store in Tannersville.

Fire under car hood

EAST STROUDSBURG — Acme Hosiery Co. firemen were called Friday at 4:45 p.m. to the Sunoco Service Station on Washington St. to extinguish a car fire.

The owner of the car was unknown Friday night as he had left the car at the station for repairs.

Robert Lesoine, fire chief, said the fire was contained "under the hood," and that firemen were only at the scene for several minutes. The alarm sounded at 4:45 and firemen were back in the firehouse at 5 p.m.

Murder suspect rents car in Stroudsburg

BELVIDERE, N.J. — A police dragnet for Sylvester Hunt Jr., 29, of Jamaica, N.Y., has spread from his New Jersey community to Stroudsburg and on to St. Louis, Mo.

Hunt is wanted by New Jersey State Police in connection with the death of his wife. Police signed a complaint charging Hunt with murder on Thursday.

Hunt, a Negro, rented a car from VanHorn's Sinclair Service Station on W. Main St., Stroudsburg, at noon Tuesday. The car was turned in Friday to an Avis renting agent in St. Louis.

State and city police in Missouri are continuing the search for the six-foot, three-inch, 185-pound man.

According to police, Hunt killed his wife, Tadora, a white woman, stuck her body in the trunk of a 1963 Rambler and after "a rod was thrown in the engine," abandoned the car on Rt. 46 near the Belvidere cutoff.

Body found

State Police from Blairstown ordered the car towed from the scene. In the attempt to gain identity of the car, which had no registration plates, police discovered the woman's body wrapped in a blanket in the trunk.

An autopsy revealed that she was killed by multiple gunshot wounds to her head and neck.

Hunt is reported to have spent Monday night in a Stroudsburg motel. He is believed to have been accompanied by his eight-year-old step-daughter, Kathy.

Mrs. VanHorn said she recalled Hunt renting a 1968 sedan. She said he seemed well-mannered and not nervous and that when he rented the car the step-daughter was not with him.

Arrives in St. Louis

St. Louis City Police Friday verified that the car had been turned in to an Avis renting agency and that they were continuing their search for the man.

They did not know if the stepdaughter was with him but were going under the assumption that she was.

Hunt is believed to be armed with a .32 calibre pistol and "considered extremely dangerous."

Hunt and his wife, Tadora, 27, of Elmhurst, N.Y., have been separated for about six months. Hunt had been employed as a dental technician in the New York City area.

State Police said they have a reasonably good idea where Hunt is or is headed, but would not reveal any other information as they felt it might endanger the life of the step-daughter.

Bank investigating $5,000 shortage

STROUDSBURG — An official of the First Stroudsburg National Bank Friday announced that an investigation is being held concerning a shortage of approximately $5,000 in the bank's funds.

Joseph Lisicky, vice president and cashier, said, "The Federal Bureau of Investigation is conducting an investigation of approximately $5,000. The investigation has been underway for the past two months."

Lisicky assured patrons of the First Stroudsburg National that the shortage has been fully covered by insurance.

A former employee of the bank, who has since left Stroudsburg, is under investigation, according to Lisicky.

Lisicky declined to name the employee who reportedly has made restitution of approximately $1,000 of the shortage.

Ross Township board of supervisors reappointed its officers for 1969 during the reorganization meeting Friday night in Flyte School. Re-elected in clockwise order, were Mrs. Joan Kresge, secretary-treasurer; Franklin Fehr Jr., president; Oscar Bonser, who remains a member of the board, and Ernest H. Artz, road foreman.

Budget approved

Ross okays sewer ordinance

SAYLORSBURG — Ross Township supervisors held their reorganization meeting Friday night, adopted their 1969 budget and enacted a sewerage facilities ordinance.

A budget of $26,972.33 was approved, retaining current tax rates; three mills real estate tax; five dollars per capita and one per cent earned income tax. Total estimated revenue from taxes will be $17,228.17.

Supervisors enacted an ordinance that will regulate on-lot construction of sewerage facilities, to conform with the state's 1966 Sewerage Facilities Act which regulates systems on one acre lots.

Franklin Fehr, Jr., chairman of the supervisors and sewerage inspector said the ordinance at the present would probably not apply to the township, but it will prohibit construction of sewerage facilities without first obtaining a $25 permit. Violators can be fined from $100 to $300.

It is the first standing ordinance of the township and will be effective Jan. 8.

Fehr was reappointed president of the board of supervisors and Ernest H. Artz was reappointed road foreman. Oscar Bonser remains as third member of the board. Mrs. Joan Kresge was reappointed secretary-treasurer.

Cavs top Wilson in L-N opener

WILSON — East Stroudsburg opened its Lehigh-Northampton League season Friday night with a 68-62 win over Wilson. The Cavaliers are now 5-3 for the year while the Warriors are 1-7 and have lost their last six.

Catasauqua routs Mounties, 77-61

CATASAUQUA — Catasauqua exploded for 50 points in the second half Friday night to dump Stroudsburg, 77-61 in the opening of the Lehigh Valley League.

The Mounties (5-4) played the Rough Riders on even terms for the first eight minutes and then took a 31-27 halftime lead. But in the second half Catasauqua (6-3) began to control both boards and get its fast break going. As a result the Riders outscored Stroudsburg 21-11 in the third period and 29-19 in the fourth. In the final period Catasauqua scored 20 of its points on easy layup following long passes.

The defeat spoiled a hot night for the Mounties John Marvin, who pumped in 27 points. Mel Abel added 13 and Bill Weber 10 for the losers.

For Catasauqua it was a two-man show as Walt Winch and Bob Superka, the scoring leaders in the exhibition grind.

Ted's Tidbits

By TED WISMER
Sports Editor

"I'm not interested in getting a good record. I'd rather have our boys exposed."

That was Red Witman's summation Friday as he looked back to his Warriors' last two dual meets with Oregon State and Iowa.

Witman's young Warriors bowed to Oregon State, 22-9 and to Iowa, 21-8, but in both matches a couple of "breaks" could have possibly changed the final outcome.

"I feel Iowa was better than us Thursday night but I still don't think our lineup is set," Witman added. "We still have to get Tommy Best back in action and a spot for promising sophomore Tom Huber from Hellertown and then shift some boys around," Witman concluded.

Witman admitted he has received numerous letters from lesser known schools wanting a match with the Warriors but he is certain that his boys will do better in the long run if they face the stiffer competition.

Take a school like Iowa, which is composed of many state champions from Iowa and Minnesota. While ESSC has had only two state champions in the entire eight years Witman has been head coach of the Warriors.

Getting back to the Iowa match for just a moment, there were several bouts, two of the Iowa wins were on riding time although in both matches the edge was over four minutes, which would have gone either way.

At 130 pounds, Kimmie Matter could have gained a draw had referee Art Grim awarded him a predicament at the end of the third period. Then, at 145, ESSC could have picked up another two points had Jerry McDonald been awarded a fall. There were at least four times in the bout when the partisan crowd thought a fall should have been awarded.

Warrior followers are puzzled by the showing of co-captain Don Rossi the last two outings. Witman is also concerned but wouldn't divulge his thoughts.

But perhaps the most puzzling problem is Alan Detweiler, a PSSC champion at 177 pounds in 1968, who quit the squad after two matches. Witman is keeping the door open for Detweiler's return but it appears he won't go begging.

We asked Witman to compare fourth-ranked Iowa with seventh-ranked Oregon State and he quickly picked the Hawkeyes.

Witman picked Iowa to win at 123, 137, 160, 177 and heavyweight. The latter bout could change if Jess Lewis wrestled for Oregon State. Oregon State was given the nod at 145 and 152, while 130 and 167 are tossups.

Turn the calendar back two years ago when ESSC defeated Iowa. Witman pointed out that "we were a mature team then with Gary Cook, Chet Dalgewicz, Ned Bushong, Jan Dutt and Roy Miller and Gerry McDonald was just a sophomore."

Bucks County Community College, which bowed to the ESSC junior varsity 24-14 in the preliminary match Thursday, is coached by former Warrior baseball star, Lou Pacchioli.

We remember "Little Louie" for his talents as a baseball player while attending Easton High School.

Pacchioli's wrestling experience in high school was cut short after only one year by illness. Pacchioli is very high on the athletic setup at the new school in Newtown, and reported at least two members of his squad are interested in coming to ESSC next fall.

Pacchioli will also return in the spring with the school's baseball team.

Wilson. The Warriors biggest spread in the half was six points.

But the second half was a different story as East Stroudsburg never looked after Tom Kishbaugh's foul shipped a 32-32 tie with 6:30 remaining in the third period. A foul by Joe Vichnicki had knotted the count at 32-32.

Wilson did manage to gain ties at 50, 54 and 56 but never went in front.

East Stroudsburg snipped the tie at 56 as Matt Hood, held in check most of the night, hit two straight field goals and Kishbaugh one, to give the Cavs a 62-56 lead, its biggest of the night.

Wilson did cut the gap to 61-62 with 35 seconds left but a two-point by Kishbaugh and two fouls by Jimmy Waller gave the Cavs their second straight victory.

East Stroudsburg had trouble getting inside. Wilson's front line consisted of 6-3, Chip Mannick, 6-4, Don Reed and 6-2 Joe Biro. But the winners got outstanding outside shooting from Kishbaugh and Waller to make up for the lack of height.

Kishbaugh and Waller were again the big guns for Eastburg with 26 and 22 points respectively. Hood finished with 10. Mannick led the losers with 18.

East Stroudsburg made it a clean sweep with a 65-47 romp in the preliminary game. Nick Ulio had 22 for the winners.

A sellout crowd of 13,244 saw the National Basketball Association game at the Spectrum. Philadelphia hit on 30 of 45 shots in the first half to take a 74-47 lead at the intermission. The 76ers led by as much as 37 points twice in the fourth period as Coach Jack Ramsay used his substitutes liberally. Even the replacements helped build the lead against the Lakers who played without scoring star, Elgin Baylor, laid up in Los Angeles with influenza.

Bill Cunningham tossed in 27 to top the winners who received 18 each from Wally Jones and Archie Clark.

Kent Erickson led the Lakers with 20 points.

George Allen mulling three coaching offers

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—While the two principals remained silent, the wife of fired Los Angeles Rams football coach George Allen said Friday that Allen was mulling three coaching offers.

Betty Allen Thursday disclosed in a Chicago radio interview that Dan Reeves, the Rams' owner who fired her husband the day after Christmas, had made a bid to rehired him.

Mrs. Allen said Buffalo of the American Football League and a National League team, which she would not identify, also have made offers to her husband.

"We're still giving it a great deal of thought," she said.

When Reeves announced Allen's firing last week, the club's owner listed "a personality clash" as the reason.

Although Mrs. Allen was talking, Reeves and Allen were not. They have made a pact to say nothing but "no comment" for the time being.

Mrs. Allen said her husband was contacted by the Rams on New Year's Day and asked to come back to the team he coached for three seasons.

He had two remaining years of his contract at about $50,000 a year.

Mrs. Allen said her husband wants a new contract.

"Would you blame him for thinking there's still a sword dangling over his head?" she asked. "It simply isn't fair to ask him to come back under the same conditions."

"He meant it, of course, when he said he wanted to come back," she continued. "He still wants to come back. That's what he wants most. But how can they possibly expect him to go back under the same old contract conditions?"

"That wouldn't be fair at all. In any arrangement between two human beings, the most important thing to consider are their intentions. What are their intentions? And by firing George once, the Rams have certainly left him in doubt as to their future intentions."

"It's simple justice. I think anyone can see that the same old contract doesn't protect him enough."

Mrs. Allen said she felt Reeves bowed to the pressure of irate fans and many of his players in making an attempt to reconcile with Allen.

After coming here following a stint as an assistant coach with the Chicago Bears, Allen guided the Rams to an 8-6 record in 1968.

The Rams won the NFL's Coastal Division with a 11-2 mark in 1967 and were 10-3-1 in 1968.

The Allens have four children.

Hawks up win streak, 128-106

DETROIT (UPI)—The Atlanta Hawks exploded for 20 straight points in the second quarter Friday night and boosted their winning streak to 12 games by defeating the Detroit Pistons 128-106 in a National Basketball Association contest.

The Hawks, trailing 39-37 early in the second period, reeled off 20 straight points in a five-minute span with Bill Bridges and Don Ohl getting six apiece.

The scoring streak was fourth of the NBA record set by the Philadelphia 76ers in 1966 and the Hawks' winning string is five games away from the league record of 17 in a row held by the 1946 Washington and 1959 Boston teams.

Atlanta has won all three of its games against the Pistons this year and hasn't lost a game since last Dec. 8. The Hawks had 41 assists in the contest, four shy of the Ohio Hall mark.

Bridges finished with 24 points and five other Atlanta players had 13 or better. Dave Bing, who fished in 19 points in the third quarter, ended the game with 32 and Happy Hairston added 25 in a losing cause for the Pistons.

Eastburg whips Pochi, 43-36

CRESCO — The East Stroudsburg Junior High basketball team defeated Pocono Central Catholic, 43-36 Friday for its first win of the season.

Jack Zimmerman paced the winners (41-21 with 15 points. Greg Miller added 11. High for the Kingsmen were B. Schweigut with 19 and Rodney Pratt with 10.

Buckhorns top Cards, 76-69

SWIFTWATER — Once-beaten Wallenpaupack outscored Pocono Mountain 22-15 in the third period Friday night and went on to post a 76-69 decision over the Cardinals. The Buckhorns are now 9-1 for the season while the Cards dipped to 2-6.

The Cardinals, who open their Lehigh-Northampton League season Tuesday at Southern Lehigh, jumped out to a 15-11 lead and still held a 35:33 halftime advantage.

But in the third period Wallenpaupack limited the Cards to six field goals, four by co-captain Ed Horn, and took a 55-50 lead into the final eight minutes.

Both teams presented balanced attacks with four Buckhorns hitting for double figures and three for coach Al Shollenberger.

Bob McGinnis led the winners with 20 while Rick Anke followed with 14, Bill Wyckoff 13 and Pete Nell 10.

Horn captured game scoring honors with 25 points, 10 of them in the third period. Brad Wise tallied 18 and Jack Hunter 13.

Wallenpaupack hit on 28 of 60 shots as compared to 28 of 79 for Pocono Mountain. The Buckhorns also had a 37-32 edge in rebounds although Hunter with 11 was the leading rebounder for the night.

Pocono Mountain salvaged a split for the night with a 54-45 win in the preliminary game as Bernie Vigna tossed in 21 points.

The game was also the final exhibition game for Wallenpaupack. The Buckhorns open their Wayne County League season Tuesday at home with Honesdale.

Kingsmen dumped by Holy Rosary

SCRANTON — Four players combined for 71 points Friday night to lead Holy Rosary to a 77-56 win over Pocono Central Catholic in the Catholic League's Central Division.

The Kingsmen (2-6) fell behind 21-10 at the end of the first period and only in the second period did they enjoy the better of the action.

Yanni and Crofton each tallied 20 and Gaffney 16 and Gaughan 15 for the winners.

Paul Katchmere led the winners with 16 although he fouled out late in the third period. Joe Finnelly added 13 and Jon Rush 12.

Holy Rosary also won the junior varsity action, 47-40. George Palpas had 14 for the losers.

Bucks down Phoenix

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Len Chappell exploded for 33 points, 11 of them in the fourth quarter, as the Milwaukee Bucks eclipsed the Phoenix Suns 124-104 Friday night in a battle of National Basketball Association expansion teams.

The Rams won the NFL's Coastal Division with a 11-2 mark in 1967 and were 10-3-1 in 1968.

The Allens have four children.

Atlanta has won all three of its games against the Pistons this year and hasn't lost a game since last Dec. 8. The Hawks had 41 assists in the contest, four shy of the Ohio Hall mark.

Bridges finished with 24 points and five other Atlanta players had 13 or better. Dave Bing, who fished in 19 points in the third quarter, ended the game with 32 and Happy Hairston added 25 in a losing cause for the Pistons.

Cowboys enjoying Miami; Vikings up, working hard

MIAMI (UPI)—Coach Tom Landry said Friday his Dallas Cowboys are enjoying themselves a lot in Miami and he isn't sure how they will do Sunday against Minnesota in the Playoff Bowl.

"We don't have that 24-hour concentration on what we're doing," Landry said. "I'm just not sure how we will react."

But Grant, coach of the Vikings, noted that post-season games are new to his team. The Vikings, he said, are "up and working hard" for the Dallas match.

Cowboy fullback Don Perkins saw no problem in Dallas getting prepared mentally and physically for the game.

"We're disappointed in the year we've had, especially losing to Cleveland, but you have a tendency to remember most of the things that happen at the close of the season," Perkins said.

"That's why we won't have any problem getting ready mentally and physically for this game."

Bill Brown, Minnesota's fullback, has what he considers an even better reason to be up for the game.

Blakeslee man wins Bowl Contest

STROUDSBURG — James Berger of Blakeslee is the winner of the Pocono Record's Football Bowl Contest.

Each of the top three place finishers had three wrong but Berger predicted 53 points as his high.

Hazel Werkheiser, 536 Queen St., Stroudsburg, was second with 37 points while Arthur Repsher, Tanite Road, Stroudsburg, was third with 21 points.

Brown said pride was another key factor.

"You don't want to go out there and look that bad because there is always somebody looking for your job," Brown said.

Grant also thinks pride will guarantee that the Vikings play a good game against Dallas.

"There is far too much pride among the players to let themselves get down. They're too smart to let that happen," Grant said. "Besides, this is a new experience for us. A lot of our players have put in eight years to get this far. I'll be very surprised if we don't play a good game."

Curtis Rowe to replace Alcindor

UCLA court dynasty could continue

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — This is the year the UCLA basketball dynasty ends. Right? Well, maybe not.

Lew Alcindor, possibly the best center ever to play the game, will be gone after keeping his team at the top of the college here for three seasons.

But rival coaches better not relax too much. Curtis Rowe is ready to pick up where Alcindor left off.

"We'll be strong next year," don't you worry about that," the brilliant sophomore forward said with confidence. "We'll miss Lew, of course, but we'll be strong."

The 6-foot-6 1/2, 216-pounder is more interested in his first varsity season right now, though.

"We're shooting for another national title (the Bruins have won two straight NCAA championships and four of the last five national tournaments) and we're confident we can do it," he said. "But we also know that it's not going to be easy."

John Wooden, UCLA's mild-mannered coach, calls Rowe's potential "unlimited" and says he's impressed with the youngster's "improvement." That's considered strong praise from the veteran mentor.

With Alcindor leading the way, UCLA swept through its first eight games this season to run its victory string to 24 contests for two campaigns. Rowe was second in scoring with a 13.5 points per game average and runner-up in rebounding with 68 behind the Bruins' All-America center.

"I'm pleased with my improvement," he disclosed. "And I'm pleased with the way I've played so far. I feel I've improved some every game."

"But the competition has been stronger than I thought it would be. I've seen a lot of different offenses and defenses."

Strong and agile, the 19-year-old is possibly at his best as an offensive rebounder. His jumping ability is uncanny and his quickness remarkable. As an outside shooter, few surpass him.

Rowe came to UCLA after establishing himself as the best high school player in Los Angeles in 1967. In his senior season at Fremont High School, he averaged 34.1 points and 18.1

rebounds a game.

"There never was any doubt I would go to UCLA," he declared. "I had about 50 offers and visited some schools but there never was any doubt."

"There was no other school that could compare academically that had the same athletic program. No one else could come close. And I wanted to go to school in my own home town."

He came close to equalling Alcindor's freshman scoring and rebounding records, averaging 32.6 points and 18.5 rebounds in leading the Bruin first-year men to a 19-4 record last season. He did manage to break Lew's one-game frosh scoring mark of 48 points with a 51-point effort, though.

Although he feels UCLA will be tough to beat again next season, Curtis doesn't want to sound as if he's taking anything away from Alcindor.

"This club is inexperienced but Lew overcomes the mistakes some of us make with his ability," the sophomore said. "Lew is improved from last season. He's more relaxed this year. He's stronger. And he's still got the quickness."

"The fact that he's in there takes a lot of pressure off you. He makes it so much easier, both offensively and defensively."

Weather only questionable factor for 23rd Hula Bowl

HONOLULU (UPI) — With both teams primed for Saturday's 23rd annual Hula Bowl, the only questionable factor Friday was the weather.

Weather the past two days has not been good as heavy rains pelted the islands, forcing the two teams to hold workouts in high school gyms.

Although the game, featuring the nation's top college seniors, has been a sellout for weeks, only a dry field will assure outstanding performances from such as running backs O.J. Simpson of Southern California and Paul Gipson of Houston for the South, and Bill Eynart of Oregon State and Ron Johnson of Michigan for the North.

And a dry field will also assure a wide open game with Dennis Brown of Michigan, Ed Podolak of Iowa and Coley O'Brien of Notre Dame passing for the North, and Ronnie Johnson of Oklahoma State and Steve Sogge of Southern Cal for the South.

Ara Parseghian, who heads the North coaching staff, plans a backfield composed of Brown at quarterback, and Eynart and Johnson as running backs with Charley Wedemeyer of Michigan State, returning to play before hometown fans, at flanker. Purdue's do-everything halfback, Leroy Keyes, has been shifted to split end.

The South boasts a strong defensive backfield composed of Al Worley of Washington, Al Brenner of Michigan State, Tony Kyasky of Syracuse and Jim House of Wyoming.

Dan Devine of Missouri, who will split South coaching duties with Johnny McKay of Southern Cal, will go with a backfield of Johnson at quarterback, Simpson at tailback and Gipson at fullback with Gene Washington of Stanford at flanker.

Backing them up will be Sogge, a late addition after Oklahoma's Bob Warmack was injured in the Bluebonnet Bowl, at the signal-calling post, Chris Gilbert of Texas at tailback and Ross Montgomery of TCU at fullback. Ron Sellers, Florida State's great pass receiver, will be at flanker.

The South offensive line has Wayne Mulligan of Clemson at South picked in American

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI)—Alabama coach Paul "Bear" Bryant Friday issued a light-hearted plea for victory to his favored South squad on the eve of the first American Bowl all-star football game.

"When I lose two games in the same year, the folks over in Alabama consider it a calamity," Bryant said jokingly at a lunch. "But," he added, calling attention to Alabama's loss to Missouri in last Saturday's Gator Bowl, "if I lose two in one week, they may not let me go home."

The South has been established as a six-point favorite over the North for Saturday's nationally televised (SN1) contest. Kickoff is set for 1 p.m. EST to avoid a television conflict with the Hula Bowl in Hawaii which starts about three and a half hours later.

Main reason for the South's role as favorite is the quarterback situation for the two teams.

South quarterbacks Edd Hargett of Texas A&M and Loran Carter of Auburn have been here working out all week while, for the North, quarterback Greg Cook of Cincinnati has a sore arm and quarterback Bob Douglass of Kansas didn't arrive on the scene until Thursday morning.

"I'm ready to go the whole game if that becomes necessary," said the 6-foot-4, 217-pound Douglass who played Wednesday night in the Orange Bowl. "But, let's face it, I'm tired."

Kansas coach Pepper Rodgers, assistant here to North coach Jack Mollenkopf of Purdue, said Cook, the nation's collegiate offense leader this past season, "hasn't even been able to throw the past few days—we can only wait and see."

Mollenkopf, who considers Cook "one of the top pro prospects in the business," echoed Rodgers, saying "we hope he'll be able to throw by Saturday."

Cook, who completed 219 passes for 3,272 yards and 25 touchdowns during the 1968 season, thinks he may have hurt his arm just prior to and during the Blue-Gray game last week at Montgomery, Ala.

Whether he plays or not, Cook Friday was named Offensive captain for the North squad and linebacker Bob Babich of Miami of Ohio was named defensive captain.

Despite the glittering array of college all-stars, including five first-string All-Americans and 24 players who participated in regular bowl games, ticket sales continued to lag. Officials, blaming a $7.50 price tag, sadly predicted Friday that attendance may be under 20,000—especially if a forecast of rain holds true.

Profit or loss for auto insurance industry depends on bookkeeping

(Editor's Note: Whether the auto insurance business is crying all the way to the bank, or headed for the poorhouse, depends on which of two sets of figures you look at. This report examines both sets.)

WASHINGTON (AP) — In petitioning state regulatory agencies for rate increases, the auto insurance industry invariably reports it is losing money. At the same time, it consistently assures stockholders that it is earning substantial profits. Which claim is true? From the industry point of view both are. It's all a matter of bookkeeping procedures. By using methods which the industry frankly concedes "differ in some respects from generally accepted accounting principles," auto insurers can legally show both a profit and a loss. "There is indeed a great deal of discussion on whether or not the auto insurance business is profitable," says Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., whose antitrust and monopoly subcommittee has scheduled new hearings on the industry next month. "Sometimes the argument turns more on accounting methods than the actual state of health of the companies."

O'Brien ill

The Jack O'Brien column which usually appears in this space is missing today due to illness. His column is expected to be resumed shortly.

Last year, for example, the 10 largest stock property and casualty companies, using what the industry calls the "statutory method" of accounting, reported an underwriting loss of $273 million. When adjusted to generally accepted accounting methods, Hart said, the figure came out as a $55 million profit. And, he added, neither figure included the net income on investments for the same 10 companies, a total of $1.7 billion.

Hart claims the hearings, begun this year, already have shown a need for major reforms in the business of insuring the nation's 103 million drivers. The industry freely concedes this and has offered its help to the Hart subcommittee and to the Department of Transportation which is just beginning a 2-year study.

Among other things the time-honored liability system itself may be on its way out, to be replaced eventually with a no-fault system resembling that of health insurance.

Abuses in auto insurance—discriminatory rates, unwarranted cancellations, racial discrimination, and pick-and-choose underwriting—have been examined in the hearings.

Insurance companies claim they lose money on underwriting automobile liability—and frequently they do. But the loss is far overshadowed by profits the companies make investing the premiums they collect from policyholders.

The industry insists that only its underwriting experience should be taken into account in the rate-making process, contending that income from investments is of concern only to stockholders.

One way to do this is through so-called "statutory underwriting profit or loss"—the accounting method prescribed by law. It works something like this: On Dec. 1 you give your agent $240 for one year's auto insurance. On December 31st, the company closes its books for the year but takes credit only for the premium actually earned—in this case one-twelfth year, or $20. Then the company deducts its expenses in selling you that policy, about 35 per cent—$84 in your case. Thus, while the company actually received $240 from you, it lists a loss on your business of $64.

Best's Insurance Reports, the statistical Boswell of the industry, says "This statutory figure does not completely disclose the underwriting results." But when the insurance companies go before state regulatory agencies to justify a rate increase, the figures presented are the statutory ones.

The Hart subcommittee brought out that more conventional accounting methods are used by the companies to arrive at an "adjusted underwriting profit or loss."

Thus, for example, Continental Insurance Companies of New York reported in statements to stockholders that in 1966 and 1967 it lost 28 cents per share, based on the statutory accounting, but had an underwriting profit of $1.61 on an adjusted per-share basis.

Add to that a per-share investment income of $11.28 and total adjusted earnings before taxes is $12.90 per share for the two years. Stockholders were paid $5.85 per share in cash dividends.

The subcommittee countered with figures showing that since 1948, the rate of disabling injury and death per 10,000 registered motor vehicles and 100 million miles driven has decreased by nearly one-third.

Children's Letters To God

Ann Landers

Nagging useless

Dear Ann Landers: How can a mother motivate her child to lose weight?

Our lovely daughter Isabelle is 11 years old and weighs at least 35 pounds more than she should. I know she will be an unhappy and lonesome teenager unless she slims down. The boys all want her to play football because she is a good guard. Pretty soon Isabelle will be too old to play football and the boys will stop coming around.

I have tried to talk to her as a friend but for some reason I'm not able to get through to her. She listens politely and agrees to try to do better. Immediately after one of our little talks she goes on an eating binge and is worse than ever. I am a size 10 and can eat anything I want and I never gain an ounce. This child takes after her father's family. They are all fat.

Please tell me how to help Isabelle. I worry about her future.

STYMIED MOTHER

Dear Sty: The first thing you can do is stop talking to Isabelle about her weight. Many obese girls (especially those who have size 10 mothers) use food as a weapon.

Tell your daughter that when she decides she wants to slim down to let you know and you'll make an appointment with a doctor who will put her on a diet. Say no more about it regardless of what she eats. Nagging and policing are useless. Dieting demands enormous will power and consistent effort. It's a very tough battle for those who have habitually turned to food for comfort.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm in my late 20's and have three wonderful children and a husband who would do anything in the world for me.

I used to drive before I got married and I want to drive again. The trouble is, the few times I have driven and my husband has been with me, he has made me so nervous I almost had an accident. I've driven with the children in the car and had no trouble. When I drive my mother and the neighbor lady to the movies and church, I get along just fine. The only person that makes me jumpy behind the wheel is my husband.

We have only one car and

Somewhere where soft lights and soft carpeting create a soft, easy atmosphere.
Somewhere where fine food, the artistic creations of our international chef is served every night.
Somewhere where the beautiful soothing music adds perfectly to your dining and dancing or listening pleasure.
Somewhere where the prices are reasonable.
